I'm glad RPS gave this game some love because no one talks about it and it's actually a really special game. The soundtrack is fantastic and it's a very moody indie horror game. Support this developer and buy this game.. I heard about this game by seeing a friend play it. I took a chance, seeing it was on sale and I am no disappointed. It is a very different kind of horror game. It is not about jump scares, or loud noises and I really appreciate that. Best played in the dark with headphones it has a really creepy undertone. The point of the game is to find and decipher EVP recordings. I am a nerd for ghost hunting shows and the idea of capturing these things is pretty rad.

It is not for everyone, the game and horror factor is subtle and the exploration could be considered boring for some but I really enjoyed it. I play on playing the sequal as well.. Game is pretty cool. Really satisfies a desire for listening to EVP. The fact that someone made a game around the phenomenon is pretty freaking cool. The levels near the end started to really aggravate me, and I ended up spending quite a bit of time figuring things out. None the less, I liked the game. Recommended for people that don't care about graphics and aren't sticklers for movement mechanics. Messing around with EVP is the what the game is about with a pretty alright story.. this is a bad game, no bones about it. i fell for it because of RPS, and while i love that site and have found quite a few games i love because of them, i have learned that you have to take their recommendations with a grain of salt. this is a BAD GAME. sound design is pretty rad but everything else is underdeveloped amateur hour. total slog. could work better as a 2 hour radio play (or podcast in today's medium of choice). sorry to dev!. It is ok for an hour or so then it gets boring fast can't recommend unless you like\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665games if so go for it
